

Description

Our wide range of benches come under our Share Product Family and complement our tables perfectly. Using the same flowing curved profile and finger friendly edges that not only work so well with our own table offerings but also play well with other existing classroom furniture. Benches are ideally suited for collaborative learning experiences and offer tremendous versatility over their single seat cousins. They are often utilized by students as shelves, display areas or even imaginary boats. As with all Natural Pod furniture, our benches are very durable and strong, yet light enough for kids and educators to easily move them; this enables great flexibility – allowing educators to meet the needs of different activities and different learning styles.

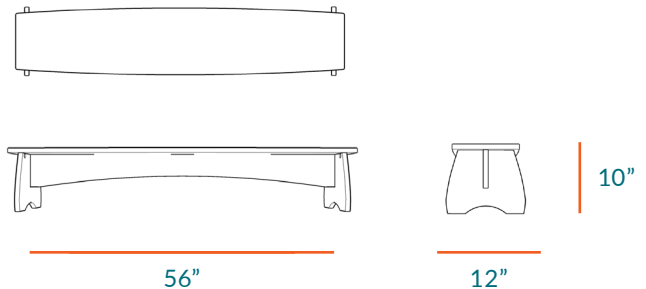

Our benches come in a large variation of lengths and heights, suitable for every age range and learning environment. For younger learners we even have benches with backs.
